The total amount of a Home Care Package budget is made up of:

The Australian Government's contribution

- ◆ the subsidy (and supplements, if eligible)

Your contribution (the fees you may be asked to pay)

- ◆ your basic daily fee (which everyone receiving a Home Care Package can be asked to pay)
- ◆ your income-tested care fee (an additional amount that some people pay based on their income assessment)
- ◆ any additional fees you agree to.

Daily Care Fee is calculated by the Government and based on a percentage of the single basic aged pension. This fee is added to your subsidy which increases your HCP budget. It is charged to your account every day, not just on the days that you receive support and services.

Care Management Fee covers the cost of your individual care manager to create and manage your plan, schedule services, and ensure you receive appropriate services.

Package Management Fee covers the cost of monitoring your budget, producing your account's invoices and statements, and complying with necessary quality controls.

Income Test Care Fee is different for everyone as it is based on your individual income. You may not be required to pay this fee depending on your financial situation.
